Maybe There's Work to Do for the Oppressed in Roumania, but He'll Stop on the Way to Study Other European Vice and Badness-May Go to Japan.

Dr. William H. Tolman of the American nstitute of Social Service, who knows so much about things sociological that he was engaged as the architect for the Spotless Town which the Carnegie millions are to build at Dunfermline, recognizes the reform instinct as a disease. He said so vesterday.

"I treat a man coming to me for informaion just as a doctor does a patient," said "I diagnose his case and prescribe for him accordingly."

The doctor's latest patient is Jimmy Reynolds, Mayor Low's reform secretary, soon to be reformer at large. When questioned yesterday by a Sun reporter, Dr. Tolman observed the usual professional reticence as to his patient's condition, but there is evidence that the attack is severe. The reform secretary has the reform complaint so acutely that soon after Jan. when he will become a reformer out of a job, he is going to sail for Roumania to see how that country can be reformed He is going to see first if the horrible oppression he has read about really exists. What he is going to do about it when he really does

There is plenty of space and much sociological material between here and Roumania, and he will also not slight any of that. On the way to Roumania he is going to make a study of police administration, municipal finance, municipal ownership and the social evil in Glasgow, London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Berlin, Vienna and Budapest. When he finishes with these and with Roumania, he is going on to investigate India, Persia, China and discover it he has not vet determined.

Japan.

When the reporter saw Mr. Reynolds in the City Hall yesterday he was reticent about his plans, but admitted suffering from a general reforming instinct.

"Yes, I'm going abroad early in January, he said. "I'm going especially to Roumania. I've heard terrible stories of the oppression of the Jews there. I've been told that if a man's a Jew he can't be a pack pedler in Roumania. No, I do not represent any society in the matter, though there are a number of prominent and wealthy Jews very much interested in the result.

"What do I expect the result to be. Oh,

"What do I expect the result to be. Oh, I don't know that there will be any; as vet I'm merely investigating. I am also going to study a number of other subjects. New York will know the result when I get back. I expect that the knowledge I gather may be useful here in New York—some day."

When he leaves this country his pockets will be crammed with letters of introduction to all kinds of authorities on all kinds of sociological subjects. These letters will be part of the treatment supplied by Dr. Tolman. Some of the letters will be addressed to Director Exner of the Vienna Imperial Technological Trade Museum, Max Richter, Privy Councillor of Berlin; Prof. Mandello, secretary of the Hungarian Economic Association, Budapest; Max Weiler, director of the Solvay Institute, Brussels; Herr Blankenberg, City Councillor, Weiler, director of the Solvay Institute, Brussels; Herr Blankenberg, City Councillor, Amsterdam; Marquis di Calboll, Councillor of the Italian Embassy in Paris; Lord Pro-vost Primrose, Glasgow; John Burns, M. FIELD FOR CATHOLIC WORK. Hugh Kelly Tells the Xavier Alumni to Take Up the Lack of School Room. The Xavier Alumni Sodality celebrated its fortieth anniversary with a social reunion at the Catholic Club last evening. President Hugh Kelly of the sodality delivered the address of welcome. In speaking of the duty of Catholic laymen he said: I believe that every day there is a better understanding among public men of the injustice done to Catholic education by the failure hitherto to recognize its public worth and to treat it accordingly. There never was so accordingle a time as the present for was so appropriate a time as the present for the cultured Catholic gentlemen in this country to address themselves to this all appropriate subjects.

country to address themselves to this and important subject.
Begin by understanding that to every child in the State of New York there attaches the constitutional right to an education between the ages of 6 and 18 years at the public expense. Then know that in the public expense of this city alone there are more than 80,000 children in part time classes, that is, receiving only a portion of that which is their constitutional right.

only a portion of that which is their constitutional right.

Then remember that the distinguished city Superintendent of Schools in this city has, within the past three months, announced that this is a condition which must always exist to a greater or less extent in this community, so predigal in its expenditure of public funds for public education.

Having done this, ask yourselves, as men and as citizens—not as Catholics—why the 75,000 children in the Catholic public schools of this community are not housed and otherwise provided for educationally at the public expense and you have a fruitful field for the Catholic alumnus sodalist to work in.

Walter George Smith of the Alumni Sodality of Philadelphia made the principal address. He was followed by the Rev.

TWO CHINESE SWINDLERS Arrested Here for Selling a Laundry Under False Pretences.

Wong Get, who made himself unpopular in Chinatown during the Lexow Committee investigation by talking too much about the family affairs of Chinatown, was arrested yesterday by Detective Sergeants Finley and Coyle on a warrant from Essex county, N. J. He was charged with an attempt to commit grand larceny.

Wong Get is one of the chiefs of the Hip Sing Tong. It was asserted that he had tried to sell to Mock Tule, a laundryman of West Orange, N. J., a laundry under false pretences.

Central Office detectives who have an inside knowledge of affairs in Chinatown said last night that the troubles of the two men who had been arrested came from a sentence to life imprisonment of two Chinamen in Boston who murdered a member of the Hip Sing Tong.

MR. LAPSLEY SENDS FOR POLICE. Drunken Woman in His Area-Cab Comes and Gets Her.

Some one telephoned to Police Headquarters last night that there was a drunken woman in the areaway of the home of David Lapsley, the stockbroker, at 44 West Thirty-third street.

Policeman Hessian was sent over from he Tenderloin station and found a well dressed woman lying in the areaway. Mr. Lapsley came to the door and the police-man left him to watch the woman and went in to telephone for a patrol wagon. When he came out the woman was gone. Mr. Lapsiey said that she was able to stand and that two high hatted men came along and took her away in a cab. He wasn't fully dressed, so he cidn't follow her.

Copper Company in Receiver's Hands -Bad News for Asbury Park. ASBURY PARK, N. J., Dec. 8 .- Another Asbury Park speculative bubble burst this afternoon. Announcement was made that the Frazer Mountain Copper Company had gone into the hands of a receiver. appointed by a New Mexico Judge. This s the concern which was exploited last winter by Albert C. Twining, president of the defunct Monmouth Trust Company, the failure of which precipitated the disastrous bank troubles in Asbury Park. The bill of complaint was filed by John E. Lanning, receiver of the Monmouth Trust Company. It is alleged in this paper that the company owes $107,000 and has only $7 in the treasury. It is also charged that Twining, to whom the Frazer Mountain was sold, never acquired title and that no legal property rights have been acquired by the company. The deed is in and as full of promise of years of activity the hands of a Santa Fé Bank awaiting as he did then. payment of $40,000, which is due for original purchase money. The Court has enjoined the bank from delivering the deed to Twining. The receivership is the result of a visit to the copper mines by Mr. Lanning, who found things topsy-turvy. Twining, who is under several indictments, is on his way to New Mexico, where he has had charge of the mine. He has no knowledge of the receivership.

As $200,000 worth of the stock is held in Asbury Park and vicinity, the sensation caused by the exposure this afternoon may be imagined.

DURANGO'S IRON HILL.

Where They Make Stoves and Nails Beside the Ore That Supplies the Iron.

One of the greatest natural curiosities in Mexico is a big hill consisting of a solid mass of iron ore. It stands beside the railroad track, near the station, in the city of Durango, in the central part of the

Nothing just like it is known elsewhere except in North Sweden, where there s another hill of iron ore, which the miners are beginning to tear down to feed the smelters that have just been built around

The Durango hill is simply a tremendous ump of iron ore about a mile in length, nearly 2,000 feet wide and rising above the rock strewn plain around it from 400 to 650

When Humboldt visited Mexico in 1803 he did not see the hill, but samples of the iron mass were shown to him, and from them he deduced the erroneous conclusion that the pieces came from a colossal aerolite, the largest on record.

Geologists say that some time or other a big opening was made in the earth's crust and that this enormous mass of ore was thrust up through the rift and piled high above the surrounding plain. That is to say, the iron hill is one of the dikes that are supposed to be the result of anotherwise. are supposed to be the result of earthquake action. hardened into rock. So the Durango hill was formed by the same process that made the Palisades along the Hudson. The ore is hematite and one of the richest iron ores in the world. The best ores in England contain 57 per cent. Iron, Lake Superior ores contain from 59 to 65 per cent. Iron, and the Durango hill is to 85 per cent. iron, and the Durango hill is from 60 to 67 per cent. pure iron, more than three-fifths of this mass, which is calculated to weigh over 600,000,000 tons, being iron of the best steel making quality.

This is only the part of the mass that appears above the surface. No one knows how deep it may penetrate into the earth. It will require a very long time to level the Durango hill with the surrounding surface, but that fate will overtake it some day. An American company is now picking away at it, and the plant it is building is such as is seldom seen in any part of the world.

THE ELEPHANT ON THE ROAD, And the Darkies in the South, Who Watch to See Him Trip on His Trunk.

"When an elephant is wide awake and feeling chipper," said an old showman, "he carries his trunk pretty well curled up, like a great hook, with the end of it up toward his mouth; but when he gets tired and sleepy his trunk hangs limp and all but straight, with the end of it pretty near the ground; and then, when he walks, the elephant seems to be all the time in danger of stepping on it.

"In the South, when we're been moving from one town to another, and the elephant was tired and was carrying his trunk low down like that, I've seen darkies follow along down like that, I've seen darkies follow along on the road near him for miles to see if he wouldn't trip himself on it and fall.

"The ponderous beast plods along with his trunk hanging straight except for, may be, the littlest bit of a kink right at the end, and all but touching the earth. Then, first you know, the tip of his trunk actually does touch, and then the elephant throws his head up the way a man that has dozed off throws his head back when it drops forward. Then the elephant dozes off again, and his head drops the way it was before, and his limp trunk all but trains on the ground as he walks.

"And then, sometimes, as he lifts his great foot and is about to set it down, the dang-foot and is about to set it down, the dang-ling trunk swings back in such a way that it seems sure to be caught under it this time. It never is, but sometimes it comes very near it. And then:

"'Hi! dere!' says one of the darkies following along the road and watching him, the done come mighty near steppin' on it dat time, suah!"

"But still the foot just misses it. Fast the elegant seems to be, and with asleep as the elephant seems to be, and with his feet going forward mechanically and his trunk hanging and swinging around any way it will and always in danger of being stepped on, it never actually is, and so he never does actually trip himself: but the never does actually trip nimeer: but the sight of the great beast going along the road like that, and apparently all the time in danger of tripping itself up, makes a fascinating attraction for the darkies."

Of all the 400 or 500 people assembled in the Church of the Messiah, at Thirtyfourth street and Park avenue, last evening to congratuate the Rev. Robert Collyer on his eightieth birthday, none looked fresher, heartier or more full of deep-chested vitality than did the venerable clergyman. "I have no words in which to express my thankfulness and gratitude for the manifestations of the tender love, I think I may call it, which abides in your hearts for me. As I sat here this evening listening to the kind words of the speakers I could not but think how little I deserved it all. I said to myself. RARE JAPANESE PRINTS.

An Interesting Art Exhibit Opened at

Teachers' College. Following the successful mathematical exhibit in the Educational Museum of Teachers' College, Columbia University, another exhibition has been arranged of perhaps even greater popular interest. This is an exhibition of rare Japanese prints lent to the museum by Sogo Matsumoto, the Japanese artist. The exhibition was opened yesterday morning and will be on view to the public from 9 o'clock in the morning till 6 o'clock in the evening until Saturday week.

The collection includes more than four hundred prints, among them twenty of Hokusai, the great master of Japanese art. Hokusai, the great master of Japanese art. There is also a representative collection of the work of Hiroshigi, the landscape painter, and Utamaro's figure pieces form an attractive part of the exhibition. In addition, there are many specimens of Japanese prints which illustrate transportation, tea raising and other eccupations, which are of special value for the illustration of courses in Teachers' College and the Horace Mann School.

One especially interesting series of the prints represents an overland journey from a provincial town in Japan to Tokio. One print in this series representing a rain-

RIVAL TICKETS IN AN EXCITING.

ANNUAL ELECTION. harles P. Bull Elected Secretary Over J. A. Holden, Who Was Nominated by the Rev. Gustavus Tuckerman-The Rest of the Regular Ticket Elected. The annual meeting of the Episcopal Archdeaconry of New York, at the Church of the Incarnation last night, developed much friction and the ticket put in nomination by Archdeacon Nelson was split The Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St Thomas's, was chosen trustee in place of the Rev. Dr. J. Lewis Parks, rector of Cal-deaconry for many years. Bishop Potter presided, and the election of fficers and trustees was the first piece of business. Archdeacon Nelson offered these nominations: Charles P. Bull, secretary James Pott, treasurer, and the Rev. Drs W. H. Vibbert, J. Lewis Parks, W. M. Grosvenor and H. P. Nichols, and Messrs. Andrew C. Zabriskie, Charles A. Clark, Alexander M Hadden and Charles A. Nourse, Jr. All were renominations with the exception of Mr. Nichols, who was named to succeed Dr. Greer.

The Rev. Gustavus Tuckerman, rector of Holy Faith Church, The Bronx, put in the name of J. A. Holden, of The Bronx, to succeed Mr. Bull as secretary, saying as the did so: "We want a Bronx representa-tive on this archdeaconry. It is stated that as the present secretary, Mr. Bull, lives without the diocese, he desires to re-tire. To take his place I therefore name Mr. Holden."

Mr. Holden."

Dr. Grosvenor said if any were to retire it should be himself, and not the honored and respected secretary. After he had finished Dr. Parks spoke in the same vein, deprecating the spirit which he said had shown itself in the gathering.

Then E. M. Camp, secretary of the American Church Missionary Society and one of the leading men of the Lay Helpers' Association an organization working with the archdeaconry in establishing Bronx missions, said that he had been informed by Mr. Bull that he desired to retire adding, "and Mr. Pott, the treasurer, on several occasions has informed me of his wish to give up office."

Dr. Parks followed Mr. Camp. He said that he wished to withdraw his name. He was opposed to changes in the offices and

More Skeletons in City Hall Park.

The Italian laborers who are excavating for the subway unearthed ten more skeletons yesterday on the site of the old Hall of Records. The skeletons were unearthed in a space not more than ten feet square, and it is supposed that they are the remains of Revolutionary prisoners.

MILLER'S Powerine

with Ammonia (50) Give the housemaid something that will help to do the work quickly and well, and she will show both interest and pride in the appearance of things. Miller's Powerine will shorten her work and make it better. Every package is equal to a supply of soap and a bottle of ammonia. Quick to cleanse wherever there's grease or dirt; best to disinfect drains and sinks; delightful for stains on hands; will not cake in damp weather.

Don't use Powerine in the laundryget Miller's Soap made with Naptha, the half-hour soap; the friend of the cloth. Sold by all grocers. THE PENNSYLVANIA SOAP CO. Lancaster, Pa.
